The National Monument on Calton Hill was planned to commemorate the Scots who died in the Napoleonic Wars. It was never completed.

'In 1962 we had a very hard winter with deep snow, so much so that we were able to ski over a totally hidden five-bar gate in the Pentlands. We skied from Hillend to Flotterstone, skiing back along the Carlops Road which was blocked by snow. The skis were hired from Tiso's in Rodney Street, opposite the Ritz cinema.' Says Jim Dignall.
